Webinar summary

Inspirational speaker Sam Rapp is to talk about her experiences as a dyslexic. The webinar is aimed at encouraging others with a message of inclusion and perseverance.

Despite the obstacles presented by dyslexia, Sam's writing has published in national magazines and websites. Since performing her first poem at Brighton Fringe, her work is conversational, confessional and engaging with reflections on her life experiences against all the odds.

An interactive Q & A session will follow the main presentation.

Webinar led by: Sam Rapp—The Dyslexic Poet

Sam Rapp is dyslexic, dyspraxic, dyscalculia, a writer, a poet, a playwright, a public speaker and part time lawyer and Chair Dyslexia House association. She attends the parliamentary committee on dyslexia and other learning disabilities, performs around the UK and internationally (usually—pre COVID-19). She is a regular contributor to BBC radio in her area where she reads her poetry and appears on the news panel. Sam conducts creative writing workshops for all abilities from 8 to 101, making writing fun for all to enjoy.
