School News

Wow! What a fantastic day we all had at Cayton Bay on Wednesday. We went fossil hunting with Will from Hidden Horizons (an ex-Gillamoore pupil!). The rocks found at Cayton Bay are Jurassic aged from the Callovian. At the north end of Cayton Bay, the Cornbrash Formation can be seen, and comprises red-brown, sandy, nodular, bioturbated limestone with oysters and other bivalves. The Cornbrash lies beneath the start of the Cayton Clay Formation.

er bivalves. The Cornbrash lies beneath the start of the Cayton Clay Formation.

He also gave us a super talk about the RNLI and what they do. We even managed to fit in ice-creams; a treat earned through the Blue Star Awards in school, awarded when a pupil goes above and beyond..

Mr Kelly in school

To aid transition to their new teacher, the Juniors will be taught by Mr Kelly for a few days this term. I'm sure they will enjoy meeting him again after his visit last week to work alongside Miss Pope.

Chrome Books and Google Classrooms

Thanks to the DfE funding we now have 16 new Chrome books in school in addition to 8 we bought, plus our laptops and iPads. We are making the most of these and will be doing so even more next year so watch this space.

Chocolate chip cookies

Our lovely cook, Mrs Ibbotson, will be making chocolate chip cookie dough next week. This can be ordered and purchased and will be available to then take home next Friday to provide you with a hassle-free way to bake your own at home.

YUMMY!

Eat Them to Defeat Them

This week was Week 3 of the campaign and the children earned stickers for trying peppers. We were really impressed by their enthusiasm and willingness to try these. Watch out for a different vegetable next week. For more information, see the packs they brought home and visit;
